

Corn and Soybean Products

There are hundreds of uses for corn and soybeans and many times we do not realize it. Edible Uses are things that you might eat. Industrial Uses are also important but are not things that you would eat. Here is a list of just a few of them.

Soybean Products

Edible Uses

Coffee creamers
Cooking oils
Filled milks
Margarine
Mayonnaise
Salad dressings
Salad oils
Sandwich spreads
Shortenings
Candy/Chocolate coatings
Soy flour
Soy sprouts
Tofu
Soy sauce
Soy milk
Roasted soynuts
Baby food

Industrial Uses

Caulking compounds
Diesel fuel
Disinfectants
Dust control agent
Electrical insulation
Ink
Lubricants
Paints
Pesticides
Protective coatings
Putty
Soap, shampoo, detergents
Candles
Varnishes
Wallboard
Adhesives
Cosmetics
Crayons

Corn Products

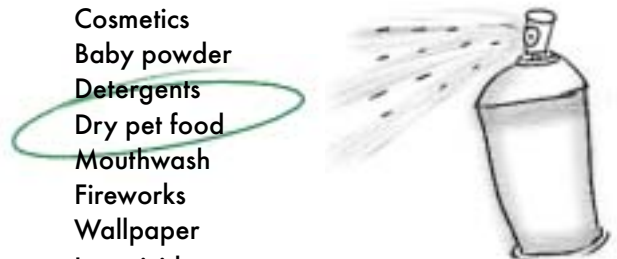

Edible Uses

Corn flakes
Corn chips
Catsup
Ice cream
Marshmallows
Syrup
Peanut butter
Icings
Corn bread
Corn oil
Soft drinks
Candy bars
Baking powder
Pudding
Baby food
Chewing gum
Potato chips

Industrial Uses

Adhesives
Explosives
Ethanol fuel
Drinking straws
Packing peanuts
Golf tees
Paper
Plywood
Paint
Solvents
Cosmetics
Baby powder
Detergents
Dry pet food
Mouthwash
Fireworks
Wallpaper
Insecticides

Circle all of the items that you have used since you got up this morning that contain soy or corn products. Remember soy and corn products are not used in just foods, and there are many other uses for them other than those listed above.